The trouble with the horse that Russia is having no luck trying to ride is, it's Balkan.

Patience is what a man has who's willing to wait. A Little Rock hotel lobby said today and tonight to the politicians and patients is what the rest of us have when it takes three days in the local coffee shops for our man to tell what the politicians told him.

The way the school kids spell it this is September Mourn.

Cripps and Bevin are headed for Washington to get some American ideas on the British financial crisis. The idea most Americans have is that what the visiting Britishers are coming over here to get is money.

Paradox of the 20th Century is the spectacle of Europe trying to get into the United States, escape too much government regulation while Americans are busy setting up the same regulations that have made Europe unbearable.

Yesterday's new story about the Hope municipal swimming pool planning to close Labor day wasn't half as authentic as this morning's first bite of Autumn.

Washington, too, welcomes the approach of the football season. It will help take the heat off the deep-freeze.

Two More Quit at Girls' School

Little Rock, Aug. 31 — (P) — Governor McMath may act today to ease an emergency at the Arkansas girls training school following another mass break.

Two staff members resigned today, further reducing the already depleted school staff.

Moreover, the school's governing body, the board of control was without a quorum to act. Two of the five members have resigned, one out of the state and the fourth reported.

McMath's assistants said he might name new board members before the day is out.

The new members would succeed Little Rock and Mrs. Charles Smithers, Benton, who have resigned.

McMath has been "hiding out" this week to rest and prepare two speeches he plans to make this weekend.

His secretaries said, however, they expected him in the office this afternoon.

Howard Gladden, McMath's administrative assistant, said that Mrs. Lavada Pruitt, head matron at the girls' school, had talked after last night's escape, and signed immediately. He added she had persuaded her to remain at least temporarily.

Mrs. Pruitt, 26-year-old former president of Paragould, previously had filed one of seven applications for the superintendent of the two correctional institutions. Gladden said he did not know whether she still considered herself an applicant.

Mrs. Metta Kellogg, in charge of the school kitchen, resigned but agreed to remain through the day. The school nurse, Mrs. Sallie Foster, quit this morning; packed up and left.

Gladden said this left only Mrs. Pruitt, two dieticians and two office workers at the school.

5 Confederate Sons to Meet in Little Rock

New Orleans, Sept. 1 — (UP) — Five feeble survivors of the legions in gray who fought for the great "lost cause" are expected to meet in Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 27 for their last encampment.

The roll call will be the 59th annual meeting of the United Confederate Veterans and no more than five are expected to attend. It is not known exactly how many survivors there are.

Mrs. R. J. Abbott, of Baton Rouge, La., second vice president, and the United Confederate Veterans of the Confederacy, said it probably will be the last time the old gray-clad warriors meet.

Gen. James W. Moore, of Selma, Ala., is commander of the UCV. The Sons of Confederate Veterans and other auxiliary organizations will hold their annual meeting simultaneously with the UCV at Little Rock.

Morley Authorized to Investigate Gambling Devices

Little Rock, Sept. 1 — (P) — Investigation of individuals who must be made to determine whether devices are used for gambling, Attorney General Ike Murry has advised Revenue Commissioner Dean Morley.

Morley requested an opinion regarding use of punchboards, ball tickers and pinball machines on which cash or merchandise prizes are awarded.

Murry's opinion said the revenue commissioner has authority to investigate each case and upon such investigation to determine if x is whether or not gambling x x x is being carried on.

Arkansas laws prohibit holders of alcoholic beverage permits from permitting gambling in their establishments.

Russia Sold Out to Austria Slavs Charge

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Sept. 1 — (P) — Yugoslavia's official newspaper charged today Russia is getting $50,000,000 for selling out Yugoslav claims to a slice of southern Austria.

The charge was the latest propaganda blast in the war of nerves between Russia and Yugoslavia.

The dispute has been highlighted by rumors of Soviet troop concentrations on Yugoslavia's borders, counter moves by Marshal Tito's army and stories of sabotage inside this Balkan country.

The newspaper Borba, voice of Tito's government, put the $50,000,000 price tag on what it called Russia's "betrayal" of Yugoslavia.

Borba declared Russia dropped her support of Yugoslav territorial claims on Austria last June after she got western agreement on satisfying Soviet war claims against Austria from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.

Britain, France and the U. S. have consistently opposed Yugoslav land claims as part of an Austrian independence treaty.

Borba's editorial was the first Yugoslav report of an official nature to an angry Russian note delivered Monday declaring again that Tito himself had abandoned his Austrian claims behind Russia's back.

With mixed defiance and sarcasm, Borba charged Russia was trying to bring Yugoslavia under "control in order to place her in an unequal and subverted position."

The tone of editorials, both in Borba and another Belgrade paper, Politika, showed little concern over the possibility of the war of nerves turning into a shooting war soon.

Borba charged the Russian news agency Tass with spreading "madcap" reports to build up reports to build up pressure against Tito's government.

(Secretary of State Acheson said in Washington that reports of Soviet troop movements near Yugoslavia appear to be part of a war of nerves.)

(The latest denial of unusual doings in Central Europe was an Austrian government report that border traffic between Austria and Yugoslavia was normal. This knocked down a report that the border had been closed.)

No Paperhanger in History Ever Messed Up a Place Any More Than That Guy Hitler

By HAL BOYLE

New York — (P) — It is ten years ago today since Adolf Hitler plunged the world into its first trillion-dollar war.

No paperhanger in history ever muddled up a place more.

Remember? Millions of people heard the broadcast of the fateful speech to the Reichstag in which Hitler told the German people their troops had marched into Poland.

It gave a shivery feeling. The very emotionality of the little alien tongue into the hearts of listeners in many lands. The hall in which he spoke was hung with scarlet banners, for red is the color of war. And the hall shook with bursts of massed applause — as if led by invisible cheerleaders. It was something out of the middle ages.

Exactly 2,074 days later the returns from Adolf's speech were in. His reich and many other countries were in ruins. Some 22,000,000 men, women and children had been killed, including Fuchey Hitler and his arch-buddy, Benito Mussolini, who ended the war hanging by his heels beside his mistress, dead and bleeding. Some $4,400,000 had been wounded.

It was the biggest jackpot of all time for brotherly love. He had rung up $1,116,991,463.084 on his cash register and about $230,900,000,000 in property damage. This doesn't even include the cost in money and damage of the long war in China, which is still in flow.

The United States picked up the biggest part of the check — $530,030,463.084 — and it is still picking up the checks.

What does it all add up to? Well, the Germans are still sorting bricks from the rubble of their cities, and will be for years. They are bystanders now. But the chief issue raised by Hitler is still un-

State Revenue Collections Show Increase

Little Rock, Sept. 1 — (P) — Collections by the Arkansas revenue department last month climbed to $7,301,359 compared to $5,319,020 in August, 1948.

The report of Commissioner Dean R. Morley shows collections for the eight months of this year to be $56,007,822 as compared with $49,553,632 for the corresponding period last year.

Gen. Vaughan to Remain Aide of Truman

Washington, Sept. 1 — (P) — Drew Pearson testified today that Maj. Gen. Harry Y. Vaughan, telephoned the justice department in 1948 "asking some intervention" in the income tax case of a New Orleans oil man.

The columnist took the witness chair in the senate's "five percent" investigation shortly after a White House news conference at which President Truman said Vaughan would stay on as his army aide.

Pearson identified the case as that of W. T. Burton, New Orleans oil man, and a "very good friend of William Helis."

The columnist said Burton had been tried twice on income tax fraud charges, and on both occasions the jury failed to agree.

He went on to testify that Burton was subsequently indicted and convicted of a charge of jury bribing.

"There was a lot of maneuvering to prevent his conviction," Pearson said.

He said he learned of Vaughan's purported interest in the case from James P. McGranery, now U. S. judge for the eastern district of Tennessee.

At the time, McGranery was the assistant to the then attorney general, Tom Clark.

Pearson said he was in McGranery's office, and that while there Vaughan telephoned McGranery "asking some intervention in the Burton case."

McGranery, Pearson continued, told him about it. Pearson added: "McGranery made the statement he was damned if he was going to, and for any political influence in the case."

Pearson said that in November or December of 1946, "rumors cropped up in Louisiana that large contributions had been made in the Kansas City primaries in order to prevent a conviction in the Burton case."

Pearson had asked the committee to hear him. He said he wanted to deny that he prompted an FBI investigation of a report that Vaughan had accepted a bribe in an income tax case.

The committee questioned Vaughan about the FBI investigation yesterday. He told them it was initiated by a "member of the press," but he did not name Pearson as the man.

Later, Col. C. J. Mara, assistant to Vaughan, said that at the time the investigation was launched Pearson was conducting a "vicious campaign" against Vaughan.

Mara also testified that the FBI "completely exonerated" Vaughan.

Mr. Truman did not elaborate when he said that Vaughan would stay on as his army aide.

Unemployment in Hempstead Reaches New Post War Low During Month of August

Unemployment in Hope and its immediate adjacent area has reached a new post war low according to figures released today by the local office of the Employment Security Division.

Teddy M. Jones, manager of the Hope office, indicated that only 319 unemployed individuals registered for unemployment insurance during August. This figure represents a further decrease in unemployment from July which totaled only 23 unemployed persons.

High month for 1949 was January when 1,440 people were unemployed due mainly to inclement weather and cessation of all lumbering and construction work.

Total non-agricultural employment in Hope and its environs is computed to be 3647 in 48 employing establishments. This figure does not include domestic help. In Hempstead county 316 employers hiring 2,747 employees are covered under the Arkansas Employment Security law.

Employment figures for August indicate that 66 employers in or just outside Hope employ 10 or more people with total employment in these establishments totaling 2395.

Mr. Jones indicated that most of the surplus labor in this vicinity had been absorbed by farm and agricultural employment. When questioned concerning the effect of the termination of the Veterans' Readjustment Allowance program on the local labor market situation, Mr. Jones indicated that he could not see the effect of the Veterans program would have any appreciable effect on local conditions. He pointed out that during July only 74 veterans were eligible to draw Readjustment Allowance and this number decreased to 29 during August.

Employed veteran totals are included in the total unemployment figures for the area listed above.

Mrs. Cogbill Takes Over Girls' School

Little Rock, Sept. 1 — (P) — The widow of a veteran Arkansas prison superintendent today will take charge of the Arkansas Girls' Training school, where two mass breaks occurred in 17 days.

Mrs. Maxine Cogbill, wife of the late Tom Cogbill, was named by Gov. Sid McMath yesterday acting superintendent of the school and the adjoining women's reformatory.

Five of the teen-agers who broke from the main school dormitory Tuesday night, shouting oaths as they fled, remain at large.

Yesterday, Ruby Pearl Watts of Crawfordville, Ark., staged a noisy demonstration in her solitary confinement cell yesterday afternoon, leading to reports that another riot was underway.

Since Mrs. Goodman's resignation, head matrons of the two institutions have been in charge.

McMath yesterday also named two new members to the board, the Rev. Chauncey Farrell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Texarkana, and Alston Jennings, Little Rock attorney. He requested the board to meet at 10 a. m. Friday to fill vacancies at the two institutions.

Meanwhile, the girls' school was reported quiet except for the noisy demonstration of the Watts girl.

Howard Gladden, administrative assistant to the governor, said when she began screaming and kicking the walls of her cell, her shoes were taken away.

He said two state policemen stationed at the school to prevent further disturbances, were told "if she breaks out of that cell, put her in another."

Minimum Wage of 75c Hour Is Favored

Washington, Sept. 1 — (P) — An increase in the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour was virtually assured today.

The senate voted for it yesterday; the house did so earlier. All that remains now is for the two branches to compromise other points in the bills each passed to revise the 1938 wage-hour law.

The principal issue to be settled concerns employees covered by the law. The house bill would remove about 1,000,000 workers from coverage. The senate provided exemptions for an estimated 250,000 or so, mainly in retail stores.

With the senate making a week's rest and the house on vacation until Sept. 21, efforts to iron out the differences will be delayed.

But when the senate late yesterday passed by voice vote a bill lifting the wage floor to 75 cents, the administration chalked up a major victory for a part of President Truman's program.

The measure wasn't just what Democratic leaders wanted. They would have preferred a bill broadening the coverage of the wage-hour law. But they gave up hopes of that in a drive to win the 75-cent minimum.

Some 22,000,000 workers are covered by the law, but Senator Pepper (D-Ia.) floor manager of the bill, said that only about 15,000,000 of them now are being paid less than 75 cents an hour.

He figured the higher minimum would cost employers $365,000,000 annually in wage payments.

Senator Ellender (D-La.) led a move to hold the minimum down to 65 cents until the end of 1950 and then to let it vary between 55 and 75 cents with changes in the cost of living.

The senate rejected that on a roll call vote 61 to 26, and then defeated various compromise proposals which Ellender offered. Ellender argued that a sudden boost to 75 cents might plunge the nation into a depression.

By a vote of 54 to 20, the senate also voted down an amendment of Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) providing for an increase to a 75-cent minimum wage for companies with less than 50 employees but not affecting the proposed increase for larger companies.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), the Republican policy leader, joined Pepper and other administration spokesmen in fighting efforts to set the minimum below 75 cents. He called it a "very reasonable" figure.

Bipartisan Bloc Seeks Passage of Farm Bill

Washington, Sept. 1 — (P) — Senators of both parties plugged today for passage of a compromise farm program, apparently with President Truman's backing.

The measure, written by Senator Anderson (D-Mn.), was sent to the senate for action yesterday afternoon after Democratic farm leaders returned from a visit to the White House.

The Democrats wouldn't say what Mr. Truman had told them, but Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) reported that the senate agriculture committee had been informed. The President would support the Anderson bill.

"I think this assures that the farmers will be in pretty good shape for another year," Aiken said. "This is a long range farm program that is not in conflict with the 1948 act now on the books."

Aiken, co-sponsoring member of the agriculture committee, is the author of the 1948 flexible price support measure due to go into effect next year.

He and other Republicans cooperated with Anderson in developing the compromise, which would keep the present high-level rigid supports for important crops, but substitute flexible supports for the others.

Anderson, former secretary of agriculture under Mr. Truman, was among the senate and house Democrats who talked with the President yesterday.

Rail Workers to Enjoy 5 Day Week

Washington, Sept. 1 — (P) — The five-day week most other American wage-earners have enjoyed for years went into effect today for nearly a million railroad workers.

It is a revolutionary change for the rail industry, which must continue keeping the trains running day in and day out every week without a halt.

The reduction from a six-day week, effective last midnight, was a long time coming for the million non-operating workers who service and maintain the trains.

Under terms of an agreement worked out between the rail unions and carriers — based on recommendations made by a presidential board last December — these workers will get the same pay for the shorter week that they get for working six days.

William M. Leiserson, chairman of the presidential board, said however that the new five-day work week rates will be about the same as the average for factory workers for comparable shifts.

The trains are expected to keep their present schedules. The several hundred thousand operating workers, such as engineers and firemen, are not affected by the change. They are paid on a mileage basis.

The railroads, given an eight-month notice of the new work week, began in advance to cut corners to save money. For instance, they closed many freight stations and offices on Saturdays. And many jobs are being mechanized.

Economies already put into effect, or in the process of being made, are designed to hold to a minimum any required additions to the railroad working force.

The carriers at one time estimated they would have to hire between 200,000 and 300,000 extra men. Now the unions estimate the number will be 100,000 or less.

The change-over has concerned the postoffice department to the extent that it has said it may have to move more mail by air and truck, particularly on week-ends when most of the non-operating workers will have their two days off.

But the department is waiting to see how the new arrangement works out.

As to costs, the presidential board estimated the shorter week would cost an initial $300,000,000 annual payroll cost, William T. Continued on Page Two

$3 for Hundred Pounds of Cotton Is Price Scale

Jonesboro, Sept. 1 — (P) — Young farmers in the a t e r Craighead county have worked out a formula for cotton pickers which depends entirely on the market price of lint cotton.

The Monette chapter, Young Farmers of Arkansas, voted overwhelmingly this week to pay the pickers the nearest round figure to ten percent of the market price for lint cotton. Thus, if lint cotton is marketed at or near 30 cents a pound, the pickers would get three dollars a hundred pounds for their work.

All of the 180 YFA members present agreed to abide by the proposal and urged other farmers in the area to follow the plan.

Would Enforce Law McMath Emphasizes

Little Rock, Sept. 1 — (UP) — Gov. Sid McMath said today he would treat a "liberalized Hot Springs" just like any other Arkansas city or community which permitted open gambling.

Although reluctant to talk about the recent organization of a move to return "liberalized" to the city which he closed up Jan. 1, 1947, after being elected Garland county prosecutor, the chief executive admitted that his home-town could expect no special treatment from his office.

"I don't see how I could treat Hot Springs any differently than I would any other town," he said. "He recalled that early in his administration he announced a policy of leaving law enforcement up to local officials 'unless some situation is created which constitutes a state problem.' He repeated this policy to United Press today.

"I still think that enforcing our laws is primarily a job for local officials," he said.

Only once since becoming governor on Jan. 11 has the chief executive found what he considered a "state problem." That was when he ordered state police to move in and raid the fabulous Black Fish lake club near Forrest City. The move was made only after local law officials repeatedly ignored reports that heavy gambling was being permitted at the club. Meanwhile Attorney Gen. Ike Murry has notified Rev. Commissioner Dean R. Morley that he has the authority to determine what devices are "gambling devices."

Morley had asked if punch boards, baseball tickers and pin ball machines were classified as gambling devices.

After declaring that "it is obvious that practically any thing or article may be used as a gaming device," Murry said "it is therefore certain that each case must be subject to separate and individual inquiry."

Moreley has said in the past that he will not permit gambling in any establishment holding beer or liquor license.

His query to Murry was prompted by an appeal from Hot Springs interests that he not order removal of baseball wire tickers, which he was told are being used in setting up pools or baseball games. Murry pointed out that any device discovered being played or used "as a device on which money or property may be won or lost" is being used as a gambling device.

Meanwhile the newly organized better business association continued its plans to meet again Sept. 8 to devise a program for "liberalizing" the Spa. The organization was set up after complaints that the no-gambling policy set up by now Gov. McMath has crippled business in Hot Springs.

The governor declined comment on a report that one of the group's first aims would be to push for a fall horse racing season to supplement the present 30-day spring meet.

continue as his army aid.

That was just about all the comment Mr. Truman would make at a news conference about the senate investigation of Vaughan's activities.

To other questions, Mr. Truman said the hearing was held on Capitol Hill, and that it would not be continued up here (Indiana) [the White House].

A reporter asked whether he thought Vaughan had not a fair trial, from the committee.

Mr. Truman declined comment. Although the committee had dismissed Vaughan, he said that for his military aide would amount to Mr. Truman to keep Vaughan as endorsing not only the "New Deal" and the "Fair Deal" but also "all of Harry Vaughan's deals."

Vaughan himself has indicated that one former White House figure—John Maragon—won't be seen around there in the future. Vaughan said yesterday that Maragon needs to be "washed up, fumigated."

A reporter told Mr. Truman that Vaughan had said Maragon was his "lovable" friend, but ought to be "fumigated" before he re-enters the White House.

The reporter wanted to know what the President thought about that.

It was then that Mr. Truman asserted that the committee hearing was being held at the Capitol and it would not be continued at the White House.

The word that Vaughan would stay on as the President's aide came when a reporter asked Mr. Truman if he contemplated "any change in my aides."

The President said: I do not. Vaughan, in a ribboned summer uniform, was standing behind the President at the meeting with reporters.

Rail Workers

Farley, president of the Association of American Railroads, figured it at $450,000,000.

Railroads get a four per cent freight rate boost, worth $293,000,000 in added revenue, effective today to help defray costs of the change. Farley said recently the carriers will "try to get along" without asking for a further increase.

One worry in many small towns without regular telegraph offices is that the railroad telegraph operator, who handles their private messages, won't be on duty Saturdays. Such operators have been off on Sundays right along.

The reason the 40-hour week has been so long coming to the railroad industry is that rail workers were exempted from the wage-hour law adopted in 1938. That law established the five-day week for most other wage-earners.

Conway Editor, Frank Robins, Succumbs

Conway, Sept. 1 — (AP) — Frank Edward Robins, 38, Conway civic leader and newspaperman, died at a hospital here last night.

He spent the day at his office at the Conway Log Cabin Democrat, of which he was publisher, and apparently was in good health. He suffered a heart attack shortly after reaching home and died about four hours later.

Robins had been connected with the paper, formerly owned by his father, for 35 years. He bought an interest in the paper in 1906 and began publishing the daily Log Cabin Democrat in 1908. He was a member of the Associated Press.

He also served as mayor of Conway from 1905 to 1908 and had been chairman of the Conway corporation board, which operates the Municipal light and water plants, since it was organized 20 years ago.

A native of Conway, he attended local schools and Hendrix college.

He also was past president of the Conway school board, the Arkansas Press association and the Conway Rotary club and a member of the Masonic lodge.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Lyde Allinder Robins, one son, Frank E. Robins, Jr., who was associated with him in operation of the paper, four daughters, Mrs. Carl E. Heinzen, Fort Worth, Tex., Mrs. W. E. Tiller, Little Rock, Mrs. Karl S. Niekle, Arlington, Va., and Mrs. William B. Jones, Jr., Myrtle Beach, S. C.; 2 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Atlanta Office to Care for State Housing

Washington, Sept. 1 — (UP) — The housing expediter's office to day announced the closing of the Dallas, Tex., regional office which supervised rent controls in eight states.

The closing resulted from state decontrol of rents of Texas and an economy move by the agency.

The announcement said that supervisory responsibilities heretofore exercised by the Dallas office will be transferred to regional offices as follows:

For New Mexico — to San Francisco office.

For Colorado, Kansas and Missouri — to Chicago office.

For Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma — to Atlanta office.

It also was announced that supervisory responsibilities in Wyoming have been transferred from the San Francisco to the Chicago regional office.

It takes about 400 pounds of corn and 75 pounds of other feed to make 100 pounds of marketable pork.

McMath Pledges Completion of Highway 7

Little Rock, Sept. 1 — (UP) — Gov. Sid McMath today pledged completion of state highway No. 7 "during my four years in office."

Speaking to one of the largest highway delegations ever assembled here, the governor said that construction of the north-south road from Harrison to Hot Springs is either completed or in the future program.

"We're interested in the highway south of Arkadelphia, but have been running into terrific engineering problems because of the low ground the highway crosses," he said.

The governor's pledge was given after various delegates from along the road presented their arguments for pavement leading into the recreational areas of central Arkansas.

"There is no question but when the highway is completed it will do more to increase the tourist industry in Arkansas more than any other road," McMath declared.

Bill Seiz, Jr., chairman of the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce highway committee, was the principal spokesman for the group. He reminded the governor that the road passes through the Ouachita and Ozark forests and the area surrounding Lake Nimrod. He also called attention to the tourist value the highway would have.

"We want the highway completed in our day," Seiz said. "We don't want a long-range program. We want it now."

The only other speaker was Bob Bailey, of Russellville, former lieutenant governor of Arkansas, who described the full length of the highway from Harrison to El Dorado.

Group Incorporates

Little Rock, Sept. 1 — (UP) — Articles of incorporation were filed in the secretary of state's office today by Lake Mena, an organization to promote and develop recreational facilities in Polk county.

Authorized capital is $50,000. Incorporators include Dr. H. H. McRee, Dr. G. W. Goforth and Russell Cox.

Opportunities Offered Rural Women Says Jones

Fayetteville, Sept. 1 — (AP) — Rural women of today face a challenge to use to the best advantage the many opportunities which are coming their way.

Dr. Lewis W. Jones, president of the University of Arkansas expressed this view here today at the 21st annual meeting of the Arkansas Council of Home Demonstration clubs. Seventy-three of Arkansas' 75 counties are represented by several hundred women.

Pointing to the changes taking place in farm life, Dr. Jones asserted that farm women in the future will have the same opportunities and advantages that urban women have.

"The rural housewife of today is being freed from the drudgery which characterized the past," Dr. Jones declared.

Changes taking place should not mean just freedom from drudgery but freedom for beneficial use of the new opportunities which are presenting themselves," he added.

Easy to Play New Card Game Canasta

By William E. McKenney

Scoring in Canasta is done in several steps. First, score all bonuses as per the following table:
Melding out, 100 points; melding out concealed, an additional 100 points; Each natural Canasta (no wild cards) 500 points; Each mixed Canasta (1 to 3 wild cards) 300 points; Each red trey, 100 points; 4 red treys for one partnership, 600 points.

A side cannot meld out unless it has at least one Canasta. This may be a natural or a mixed Canasta.
Red treys on the table do not count as melds. As a matter of fact, if your side fails to make a legal minimum meld before the other side goes out, the red treys of your side become a minus value.

When it is your turn to play, if you fail to remove a red trey from your hand and place it face up on the table, and the other side melds out and catches you with one or more red treys, your side is subject to a penalty of 500 points for each red trey.

However, if a player melds out before it has become your turn to play, then you are only subject to a 100-point penalty for each red trey. These points are deducted from your score.

After scoring bonuses, do not mix the cards together, as these cards have additional scoring values.

The next step is to add the value of each card left in the hand of the partner of the player who went out, and for the opponents to add the value of each card left in their hands. The cards are valued according to the following table:

Each joker, 50 points; each deuce and each ace, 20 points; each king, queen, jack, ten, nine, eight, 10 points; each seven, six, five, four, 5 points; each black three 5 points.

The total points left in the hands of the partner of the player who went out, and of the opponents are a minus value for their respective sides.

Next, each side adds the value of all their cards that have been melded on the table. These cards are a plus value for the respective sides. Subtract the minus value from the plus value to determine the net score.

Points required for game are 5000. There is no extra game bonus.

Minimum points required for first meld:	Minimum Points
Previous Score	Towards Game
Minus	15
0 to 1495	50
1500 to 2995	90
3000 or more	120

For the purpose of making an initial meld, the values of the cards are added together. A meld of three nines would be 30; two nines and a deuce would be 40; two nines and a joker would be 70.

For the purpose of getting the required minimum count for your initial meld, you may make two or more different melds at the same time. For example, if you need 90 points, you could put which counts (50-5-5) 60 points, down a joker and two sevens total for both melds of 90.

After a side has made its initial legal meld, either partner may (10-10-10) 30 points, giving you a and three eight-spots, which counts add to their melds, or make any other legal meld without reference to any minimum count.

Tomorrow: Canasta's irregularities.

GAR Veterans End Meeting for Last Time

By BOYD GILL

Indianapolis, Sept. 1 — (UP) — Six union veterans of the Civil war return to their homes across the nation today, never to meet again, after closing the final encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

They planned to board trains, planes and automobiles today to day that this year's meeting was to be the last.

But before they closed their meeting, the old northern soldiers made their final gesture of peace to their former enemies of the South.

They sent their best greetings to the few feeble survivors of Gen. Robert E. Lee's armies who will meet in Little Rock on Sept. 2 for what will also be their final encampment, the 98th annual meeting of the United Confederate Veterans. Five Confederate veterans are expected to attend.

In his proposal for the final message of greeting, 108-year-old James A. Hard, Rochester, N. Y., said "this is one United States there is no longer a North and South — tell those boys in gray we'd like to meet with them just once but we're too old to travel."

Sir Hubert Wilkins, Arctic explorer, took the first pictures of actual lighting ever shown to the pre-World War I Balkan wars.

Steps to the Moon

By Adelade Humphries

The Story: Until Barry Bainbridge's millions saves the life of Gaynel Teare's younger sister Pat, Gaynel was slow to accept his proposal of marriage, then came Pat's emergency operation. Gaynel promises to pay Barry back the money he spent to save Pat's life, and tells herself she will give Barry the answer he wants. But Fritz takes Gaynel on a pleasure hunt across the Detroit river to Canada and confides in her. He is about to land a very good job, and he proposes to her. Gaynel realizes she is in love with Fritz.

Not just yet, her heart whispered, let it last a little while, this beautiful singing world, it may never be so lovely, quite, again.

She told herself that reality would drown and destroy all this, sweep the mythical moon out of the sky and land her, with a plunk, back down on earth.

Sunday Fritz took her to Belle Isle, to make a day of it. Or as Fritz said, "To celebrate. That's what this is, my love, in case what this is, a celebration. I've got a new job. You are now gazing upon the newly appointed promotion manager of the Enterprise News Syndicate. Congratulations are in order."

"Oh, Fritz!" Gaynel had to sit down upon the nearest park bench. She was so overcome by such big news, "I'm so glad, so, terribly glad." She was, of course, and yet crowding out that gladness came the thought, it's come. The time to look reality in the face.

"Does that mean you'll be going away?"

"Not right off," Fritz gave her a wide grin, as he sat down beside her on the bench. He took her hands in his, pulled her around so that she must look into his eyes. "You don't seem to be taking this the way you should. With somersaults and one war whoop, at least."

"I'll turn them in a minute," she promised. But the way her heart behaved when he looked at her made other acrobatics impossible at the moment. "It's kind of stuck me in the middle. All of a sudden. The way you feel when something hits you and you lose your breath."

"I know. It did me the same trick. I almost got tight last night. In fact," his grin was rueful, "that's why this celebration is being held here today. I spent my first week's salary in advance. Today, my love, we dine on a couple of hamburgers. You don't mind?"

Gaynel shook her head. How could she mind, as long as he was so near, his tweed sleeve brushing her own, his hair all rumpled and shiny in the sun, his eyes so blue that the sky above looked faded in comparison? Yet she knew she should mind; that was just it. Part of those sober cold facts that would have to be stared out of countenance.

These are exceptional hamburgers, of course, Fritz said. "Just wait till you sink your teeth in them!" He crunched his own in anticipation, wet his lips. "That's why I've been dragging you for miles all over this Isle: to whip your appetite into shape. Boy!" He stretched his legs in front of him as far as they would reach, which was quite some distance. "It does feel good to be set. Suppose we postpone the feast and just commune with nature for awhile."

Nature, at the moment, was a black squirrel approaching them cautiously, yet with a hopeful gleam in its bright eye and in the flag-flung triumph of its bushy tail.

Fritz nudged her to sit still. He reached out a hand, clenched as though containing some hidden treasure; made a clucking sound with his tongue.

The squirrel came toward them once more, a little pause between each eager advance; with a leap it landed neatly on Fritz's shoulder, to perch there a moment then dashed down his coat front, took a nibble at one button, poked asked, when the little creature an inquiring nose into his hand.

Tokyo, Thursday, Sept. 1 — (AP) — General MacArthur today observed the fourth anniversary of the Japanese surrender ceremony with a statement that communism no longer is a major threat in Japan.

"Today, Japan might, indeed, be

It was almost startling until Bell added: "All seven members of the conference have brought in some fine athletes and each has a chance at the title. I would say that the other six have a better chance than we have."

Bell made the statement as his squad of 60 went to work aiming at a third conference title in a row.

The other six members of the conference — Rice, Texas, Texas A. and M., Baylor, Texas Christian and Arkansas — also opened fall practice.

Bell wouldn't pick the team he thought would take the championship, but he didn't agree with the view that Southern Methodist, which has lost only one game out of 22 in two seasons and been in the Cotton bowl twice, should be the favorite.

Cold War May Be Over Truman Hopes

Washington, Sept. 1 — (AP) — President Truman said today the war of nerves between the communists and democratic nations is slackening up very much. He expressed hope it would end in surrender as did the World War II shooting conflict.

The President made the comment at his news conference on the 10th anniversary of Hitler's invasion of Poland. He did not say so but implied that the surrender he hoped for would be that of the foes of the democratic nations.

Asked for comment on the anniversary, Mr. Truman said he was exceedingly happy that the shooting war did not continue. He regretted that it was followed by a war of nerves. He said he hoped the war of nerves would end likewise in surrender.

When a reporter asked what he meant by surrender, he said he meant just that. Pressed for his opinion on the present stage of the war of nerves he said he thought it is slackening up very much.

Later on, Mrs. Truman said he was hopeful that the war of nerves will cease soon. When it does he said everybody will then be in a mood for peace, the United Nations would then work as it should and we should have generations of world peace.

But he had nothing to say about Soviet troop movements in the vicinity of Yugoslavia. Secretary of State Acheson described those yesterday as part of the Soviet war of nerves.

and tomorrow. It is possible, he added, that additional milk would be imported from other states when the present supply has been exhausted. However, final details have not been worked out.

Meanwhile, Dr. William P. Scarlett, Little Rock health officer, scheduled a meeting of the board of health at noon to discuss the situation.

Milk Dispute Remains Unsettled

Little Rock, Sept. 1 — (UP) — Milk producers and processors in the greater Little Rock area failed today to get together on their price dispute.

H. J. Hilson, vice-president of the board of the Central Arkansas Milk Producers association, said that all dairies in the area refused their regular quotas of milk at the new asked price of $5 per hundredweight.

The milk was trucked to the processing plant at Carlisle, Hilson said, and will be made into cheese. The bottling plant is expected to be in operation by late today or tomorrow, and then milk will be available without cost to any hospital, charitable organization or persons needing milk.

Details of the distribution system had not been worked out by midmorning.

Fred W. Terry said the pro-quota of milk to the Terry Dairy dealers delivered their regular quota of milk to the Terry Dairy products Co. this morning but would not accept the offered price of $4.80 cents per hundredweight for 4 per cent butterfat.

Terry said his company would serve its regular customers today

Miss America Reports on European Tour

New York, Sept. 1 — (AP) — Bebe Shopp, willowy, blonde Miss America of 1948, returned by air from her month-long tour of Europe today with these opinions:

The French (diaper-bral swim suits, "Scouty" and not for Miss Shopp or other American girls. Up to French girls to decide.

Falsies: Not for Miss Shopp either, but every girl for herself.

European morality: "I was on a vacation. I was not on a crusade to clean up Europe, or anything else."

French beauty: "I saw beautiful women wherever I went... all over."

European men: "I didn't get a chance to meet European men and had mostly American young men for companions."

Marriage proposals: None, but got lots of fan mail and one attempted telephone date in Italy.

Happiest country: Italy. Most thrilling moment: When bullfighters dedicated two bulls to her in Granada, Spain.

Thing most missed in Europe: Milk.

She said some of her remarks on these subjects while she was in Europe were misunderstood.

Miss Shopp, a resident of Hopkins, Minn., said she got a big laugh out of one European newspaper that quoted her as saying "I don't drink, don't smoke and don't go out with men."

At the time, she said, "four men were seeing me off to the United States."

viewed as a symbol of hope for loss of a native people, overwhelmed by the despotic rule of coercive force," he declared in a forward-looking review of the occupation which he commands. The formal surrender took place Sept. 2, 1945.

"The Japanese people," he said, "have fully and faithfully observed their surrender commitments and advanced steadily along the road of spiritual regeneration and physical reconstruction."

Noting "accelerated progress" in every phase during the past year, he said that assaults on democracy by "the small extremist communist minority" had been effectively repulsed by Japanese public opinion rather than by police power.

"As a result," he stated, "the threat of communism as a major issue in Japanese life is past. I fell victim of its own excesses. The Japanese mind penetrated the hypocrisy supporting its position. This test of strength, while disturbing to orderly progress, served to bring to light for the first time the full latent power of the Japanese devotion to the concepts of freedom and the integrity of their constitutional processes."

Trade unionization progress, he acknowledged, "has been somewhat impeded by the machinations of an irresponsible union leadership."

Optimism was expressed, however, that the rank and file "are moving to insist upon moderation and objectivity."

Economically, the supreme commander described Japan as "still in transition from an economy of survival to one of health," but he cited great advantages in the past year, including large gains in production of coal, chemicals and electric power.

Exports, he said, totalled $103,000,000 in 1946; $175,000,000 in 1947; $255,000,000 in 1948; and already had exceeded the 1948 total in six months of 1949.

MacArthur commented that his occupation policy "time and again" has been simultaneously attacked "by the leftists as to reactionary and by the conservatives as too liberal."

"Such an atmosphere," he said, "while giving assurance that our moderate course is well charted, does not contribute to an objective public appraisal of the situation."

One difference between old, tough peas—and young, tender peas—is that the old ones sink and the young ones float in a salt-water solution. On the basis of that fact Kroger Food Foundation scientists have developed a highly accurate method of determining maturity and quality of peas. This test is one of many used by the Food Foundation to safeguard the quality of food sold in your Kroger store.

P. B., Natchez Go Into Cotton Loop Playoffs

By The Associated Press
Pine Bluff and Natchez slipped into the Cotton States league playoffs by the skin of their teeth Wednesday night in the final games of the regular season.
The playoffs will start Friday night with fourth-place Pine Bluff at pennant-winning Greenwood and third-place Natchez at second-place El Dorado. Each series will be a best-of-seven affair.
Natchez Indians finished the regular campaign half a game ahead of Pine Bluff, which in turn was only half a length in front of the Greenville Bucks.
The Indians went right down to the wire with their backs to the wall. They dropped the first game of a doubleheader to Greenville, 9-1, as the result of Hal Seawright's two-run homer in the first inning and a six-run spree in the fourth.

Then for five innings of the nightcap, Pat Rooney blanked the Indians without giving them a hit. Greenville meanwhile piling up a three-run lead. But Natchez shoved across four runs in the sixth and, after the Bucks tied it up in their half of the ninth, won 5-4 in the bottom half on Jim Gilbert's bases-loaded single.
Pine Bluff's Cardinals nailed down a playoff berth by whipping the Greenwood Dodgers, 9 to 3, in the first game of a twin bill, as Cotton Hill scattered eight hits. The Dodgers copped the second tilt, 9 to 8, in ten innings. In the nightcap, Pine Bluff ace Eddie Albrecht, working in relief lost his bid for his 30th victory of the year.

El Dorado and Helena, with nothing to gain or lose in the season finale, did something different. Neither team sent a regular pitcher to the mound, using catchers, infielders and outfielders as chunkers. El Dorado won, 8 to 6.
In the other wind-up, the Hot Springs Bathing Blasted Clarksdale 9 to 3, with the Planters doing as El Dorado and Helena did. First Baseman Jim Kunkle and Outfielder Ernie Davis split the losers' hurling chores.

The American painter, Benjamin West, encouraged the founding of the Royal Academy in London and became its president in 1767.

Can Expect Activity Soon in Newly Organized Pacific Union to Fight Against Communism

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

We are likely to see a fresh burst of activity shortly in the interests of the Pacific union which has been proposed by President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines as a far eastern counterpart of the Atlantic pact.
This project is primarily designed to halt the advance of communism in the Orient — not by military means but by politico-economic methods. The move takes on special significance in view of the striking communist successes in China. Its supporters hope that it may help prevent another global conflagration like the late war, which today marks the tenth anniversary of its Hitlerian whelping.
The energetic senior Quirino is letting no grass grow under his feet in pushing his far-reaching project. It first was announced to the outside world on July 11 after he discussed it with President Chiang Kai-shek of China in Manila at a conference to which the generalissimo had been invited. These two chiefs of state having agreed on the necessity of such a development, President Quirino visited America and on August 9 made a plea for American support in addressing the United States senate and house of representatives.

Quirino and Chiang also agreed that relations between China and the Philippines should be strengthened and that practical measures should be taken immediately for promotion of close economic and cultural cooperation. The south Korean republic was expected to be an early participant, and it was agreed that invitations for collaboration should go to Indonesia, Australia, New Zealand, India and Siam.

The task of pursuing the project with these nations has been assigned to Brigadier General Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine ambassador to the United Nations. He has just arrived in America, armed with a blue print of the proposed Pacific union, to carry out his difficult and delicate mission. It is important to note that these activities are being carried out within the precincts of the peace organization itself, thus emphasizing the peaceful intentions of the pact.

General Romulo not only will have to sell this idea to the other nations of southeast Asia, but it is understood that he will harmonize the plans for a Pacific union with developments of the U. S. state department's far eastern policy. It is a tough assignment whatever way you look at it.

And what about Japan and its relations to this Pacific pact? Well, of course Nippon's relations to the Pacific union will become a major issue in due time. She will be too important militarily, politically and economically to be left out of the picture. However, that question isn't pressing, since Japan technically is still at war with her neighbors.

It is well that this issue doesn't have to be settled now, since Japan's war victims still are bitter. The Philippines, for example, not only deported all Japs at the end of the fighting but passed a law forbidding Japanese for all time to enter the Philippines.
The law still stands, and it will take much to change it so long as the terrors of the Jap invasion still of the public. Many Filipinos even are bitterly opposed to reopening any trade relations with Japan.

President Quirino, however, has been viewing the situation broadmindedly, although his personal grievance against the Japs is vast. His wife and three children were killed during the closing days of the war when the invaders went wild and killed indiscriminately.
The President has been renewing operations gradually, on the basis that they are legitimate since they benefit the Philippines. And one anticipates that time will heal a lot of wounds.

In any event, the Japanese question isn't pressing at this juncture. The task is to unite the democratic countries under the Pacific pact.

Typhoon Kills 68 Persons in Japan

Tokyo, Sept. 1 — (A) — A 90-mile-an-hour typhoon raked central Japan today, killing 68 persons and injuring 223 others.
The storm left 39 persons missing, 150,000 homeless and $70,000,000 in property damage.
The Japanese government called an emergency meeting to draw up relief plans.

Twenty-two Japanese ships were sunk in Tokyo and Yokohama harbors, 10 others were stranded or grounded and at least 28 were badly damaged.
A force of 100,000 men stood guard along the banks of swollen rivers today, watching for possible breaks in the levees. Fears that Tokyo's Big Tone river would overflow its banks were allayed when the waters receded.

Two villages in Nagano prefecture were with a combined population of 1,900 were cut off by swirling flood waters. The villagers were seen clinging to rooftops and telephone poles.
The U. S. air force sent a B-29 over the typhoon "freed in ground" between Okinawa and two Jma after reporters described two "suspicious" weather formations there. However, the B-29 found no positive evidence that any new storms were in the offing.

As soon as the storm subsided, volunteer crews set about cleaning up debris, strengthening river dikes and repairing battered buildings.
Thirty-one were killed and 100,000 made homeless when the Watarase river broke through levees and flooded the textile manufacturing center of Kiriya.

No American casualties were reported. The typhoon, named "Kitty," was described by weather

Truman Hopes 'Fair Deal' Plan Will Pass

Washington, Sept. 1 — (A) — President Truman predicted today that his "fair deal" program ultimately will be enacted in full.

The President told a news conference he is confident that the 81st congress will catch up at its next session on matters he has been unable to get through at the current session.

He reminded the conference that the 81st congress is in two parts and that there is still a long way to go even on the present session. The second session starts in January.

Mr. Truman said he stands full tilt behind the $41,900,000,000 budget he submitted to congress in January.

This was his reply to a question about congressional attempts to write into appropriation bills a rider directing him to make percentage cuts in overall funds voted by the two houses.

He said he was very pleased that such an economy rider by Senator McClellan (D-Ark) was defeated by the senate.

The President said he submitted necessary recommendations to congress and that it was the business of congress to analyze his budget and make its own decisions.

A reporter wanted to know whether he had any plans of his own for effecting economies.

That was when Mr. Truman said the budget he sent to congress was made up of expenditures he thought necessary. He added he stands by it full tilt now.

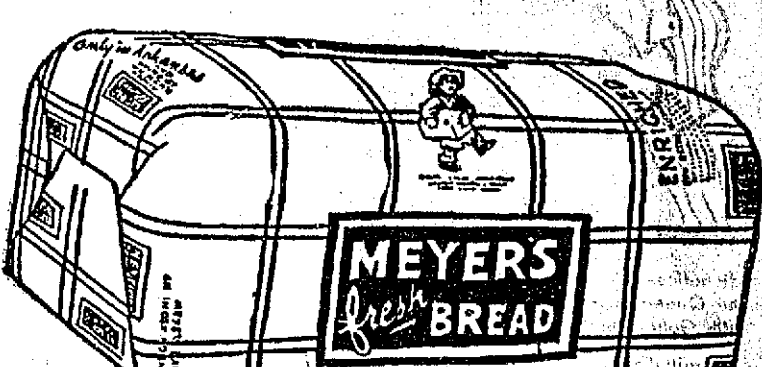

The President was reminded that he had labeled the 80th congress in his 1948 campaign, a "do nothing" congress and was asked how he would describe the Democratic-dominated 81st.

He said this congress can't be evaluated until it has finished its work. He said that he thinks it has finished it will be found to have done all right.

DOROTHY DIX Straying Husband

Dear Miss Dix: I am a woman past 50, married more than thirty years. When we married my husband had just $5 in his pocket, but we worked together, saved and prospered. About a year ago, I found some letters that a woman had written my husband telling of an affair between them. This almost killed me, but he denies everything. Says he loves only me and wants me to stay with him, but I feel that I can never trust him again and that my love for him is dead. Would I be happier away from him? If he would confess everything and ask me to forgive him, I would feel so much better. Tell me what to do.

ALICE

Answer: No one can tell you what to do, poor, disillusioned wife. That is a matter that your own heart must settle but I urge you to try to look upon your husband's sidestepping with as lenient an eye as possible, and believe that when he says there has been nothing between him and the woman except a little flirtation he is telling you the truth.

Heaven knows why, but middle age is the age of indiscretion with men. It is then that a man loses all caution in dealing with women and becomes the easy prey of any gold-digger who happens along. It is then that men write gossamer letters signed "Laddie Boy" that their lawyers have to buy back. It is then that men who really adore their wives get into silly flirtations that break their wives' hearts.

It is then that a wise woman overworks her funnybone instead of her tear ducts and buys a ticket to Europe instead of Reno. For all this is just a passing phase with her husband and, if she will give him time, he will get over it. It doesn't take long for the man to find out that this sudden renewal of youth was a false alarm and that he isn't a boy again, but the same old man with the same old rheumatism and the same old necessity to watch his diet, and that he wheezes when he dances and can't go the pace with youth.

He finds that pretty little flappers bore him to death and he hasn't anything to talk to them about, as with men, with whom he has the memories of a lifetime. And, in spite of all their flatteries and cajoleries, he can't help suspecting the women who always have their hands in his pocket book and contrasting them with the faithful wife who worked and slaved and pinched pennies to save for him.

After a woman has loved a man for thirty years, and lived with him in peace and harmony all the time, he has become so much a part of her life that she divorces him, it leaves her as maimed as if she had lopped off an arm or a leg.

The anger soon dies down, and the woman who has had a long, happy married life, but who has divorced her husband because he has stumbled off the strait and narrow path in his middle age, begins to remember a thousand tenderesses, all the sympathy and consideration he has shown her in their many years together. So there you are in this very common situation in which a middle-aged man fancies himself a boy again and tries to see if he has lost his old technique in love-making. Or when some adventuress gets hold of him and plays him for a sucker. Hard on the wife. There will be the flavor of aloe in her mouth as long as she lives, but life will be gall and wormwood to her if she divorces her husband. Far happier for her if she treats him as she used to do her bad little boys when they played truant, and just spanks him and kisses him and forgives him and forgets him.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: We are a group of girls attending a co-educational college. We are attractive. We aren't prudes. We have met boys at parties who seem to like us, but they never pursue the acquaintance. We consider it unfair to have to lose our youth and spend Saturday nights sitting in a dormitory. What can we do about it?

LES MISERABLES

Answer: Well, daughters I should say that at the present moment the only thing can do about being wall flowers in the college garden is to accept the situation and forget your dream of being clinging vines.

Perhaps your college is shy on men, as is the case with so many other co-educational institutions. And then, you know, college students follow the leader. If some boy, who is a sort of bell-wether, singles out a particular girl they give her a rush and leave other just as attractive ones by their lonesome.

Often the boys pass over a girl because she is more intelligent than they are, better read and make better grades. This hurts their vanity and they prefer the Dumb Dora to her. Sometimes the girl is more mature than the boys she is thrown with, and that makes them feel awkward at an age when they are striving to be thought sophisticated. So cheer up, college days will soon be over, and you will have a chance at real men. And, anyway, there is something more important to be learned at college than how to vamp the boys.

LUCAS BARGAINS

Washington, Aug. 30 —(AP)—Democratic Leader Lucas (Ill) today promised senators a week's vacation if they will pass a bill raising minimum wages from 40 to 75 cents an hour by tomorrow night.

The GOP leaders, Senators Taft of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska, told a reporter they probably would go along with Lucas' suggestion, which includes night sessions tonight and tomorrow if necessary. The proposed senate recess would extend over Labor day through next Tuesday.
